High Density Storage

With inner office floor space at a premium the need for higher density storage and file shelving increases. Movable shelving provides this additional capacity by replacing wasted aisle space between shelving rows with additional shelving.

Designed to work with practically any size and type of shelving (filing letter and legal, X-Ray, industrial, steel clip, rivet, as well as with drawers and cabinet doors) movable shelving on rails is an ideal solution for converting to high density filing and storage.

Mechanical Assist, Electric, Manual

Movable shelving can be configured with three assist options. Most applications will benefit from rotary mechanical assist arms located at the end of each aisle, or electric systems are available that simply require the push of button to open aisles, or manual push-pull systems for budget applications.
